The U.S. Reveals Its True Hatred Towards the Somali People

24 Dul Hijja 1447H (10 June 2026) – For decades, the United States government has cloaked its relationship with the Somali people in rhetoric promising partnership and progress. However, evidence suggests that beneath this diplomatic facade lies a deep-seated animosity. While Washington falsely claims to support Somalia, it simultaneously fosters corrupt leaders and land-grabbers, supports blood-thirsty warlords, wages economic warfare against the country's critical infrastructure, and manipulates Somalia's internal politics to serve American interests rather than those of the Somali people.

Since assuming office, the Trump administration intensified this brazen hostility against the Somali people, hurling vitriolic insults that branded them as "garbage" and tarnished their reputation. The case of Omar Artan serves as the latest and most damning proof that American policy extends beyond security concerns to encompass broad ethnic discrimination. Artan's case demonstrates that U.S. decision-making is driven not by security concerns or the imperative to counter "extremism," but rather by racial and ethnic prejudice targeting Somalis as a whole. It is a deep-rooted hostility that manifests across multiple fronts, including the indiscriminate drone strikes that spare neither women, children or the elderly civilians in Somalia.

In light of these revelations, we issue an urgent call to action for the Somali people, particularly the youth. We urge you not to squander your most precious time on momentary distractions such as the so-called World Cup. Let us work together to expel the invaders and the soulless puppets from our lands. Let us join hands and build a Somalia that is defined by honour, freedom, absolute independence from all forms of foreign occupation, and divine governance by Islamic Shari'ah. Rise from the shadows of occupation and humiliation. Reclaim your sovereignty. Stand with us.
